

Bertrand
Russell

SCEPT-ICAL ESSAYS

Unwin Books

SCEPTICAL ESSAYS

Is it possible to be a rational human being today?

As he picks his way among the confusion of ideas that agitate our time, Bertrand Russell maintains that it is, in spite of the opposition. In these essays, written during the middle years of his life, he examines such questions as the influence of psycho-analysis and the theory of relativity, the decline of the scientific impulse in the West, and the wicked persistence of Puritanism. There is also an important discussion of freedom. Through them all runs, of course, his famous scepticism; and underlying the scepticism, which is never hollow, is his sustained and urgent plea to mankind: tolerate and co-operate—or die.

CONTENTS

- I. Introduction: on the Value of Scepticism page 9
- II. Dreams and Facts 19
- III. Is Science Superstitious? 25
- IV. Can Men Be Rational? 32
- V. Philosophy in the Twentieth Century 38
- VI. Machines and the Emotions
56
- VII. Behaviourism and Values 62
- VIII. Eastern and Western Ideals of Happiness 69
- IX. The Harm That Good Men
Do 76
- X. The Recrudescence of Puritanism 84
- XI. The Need for Political Scepticism 89
- XII. Free Thought and Official
Propaganda 101
- XIII. Freedom in Society 117
- XIV. Freedom Versus Authority in Education 127
- XV. Psychology and Politics 139
- XVI. The Danger of Creed Wars 148
- XVII. Some Prospects: Cheerful
and Otherwise 161

1. Bertrand Russell ON EDUCATION
2. Bertrand Russell SCEPTICAL ESSAYS
3. Radhakrishnan THE HINDU VIEW OF LIFE
4. Albert Schweitzer MY CHILDHOOD AND YOUTH
5. Marx, Lenin, Engels ESSENTIAL LEFT
6. Emile Coue and C. H. Brooks
BETTER AND BETTER EVERY DAY
7. Bertrand Russell POWER
8. Bertrand Russell IN PRAISE OF IDLENESS
9. Arthur Waley
PILLOW BOOK OF SEI SHONAGON
10. Dostojevsky
THE DREAM OF A QUEER FELLOW
11. Freud A YOUNG GIRL'S DIARY
12. Leslie J. Tizard GUIDE TO MARRIAGE
13. Bertrand Russell
MARRIAGE AND MORALS
14. Bertrand Russell
CONQUEST OF HAPPINESS
15. Arthur Waley
CHINESE POEMS
16. Christmas Humphreys
ZEN BUDDHISM
17. Hilaire Belloc
TRISTAN AND ISEULT
18. Harold Laski INTRODUCTION TO POLITICS
19. Albert Schweitzer
THE DECAY AND THE RESTORATION OF CIVILIZATION
20. Albert Schweitzer
CIVILIZATION AND ETHICS
21. Johannes Nohl THE BLACK DEATH
22. Ortega y Gasset
THE REVOLT OF THE MASSES
23. Rabindranath Tagore THE RELIGION OF MAN
24. Radhakrishnan IDEALIST VIEW OF LIFE

BERTRAND RUSSELL

AUTHORITY AND THE INDIVIDUAL

Seldom has a series of broadcast talks aroused so much interest and comment as did the first Reith Lectures. In choosing Bertrand Russell the B.B.C. gave millions of listeners an unrivalled opportunity of hearing one of the greatest living philosophers, who, with wit and lucidity, examined today's most vital problem—the continual fight between Authority and the Individual.

The lectures are concerned with the problem of reconciling public order and private initiative. After a psychological discussion of the sources of social and anti-social action, the author sketches briefly the history of the extent and intensity of governmental control, and then examines the role of individuals in the history of art, science, religion, and morals. He seeks political principles, capable of determining what functions should belong to governments, and what to private individuals or voluntary organizations, as well as how to leave as much scope as possible for personal initiative within governmental bodies. He advocates devolution and decentralization to the greatest extent compatible with order and security. He sees danger in the concentration of power in central authorities controlling vast organizations, and in the delegation of executive decision to officials responsible only to such remote centres. He believes it both possible and important to preserve private initiative in spite of central control where control is necessary, and suggests principles and methods by means of which this can be achieved.

Cr. 8vo. 7s. 6d. net

GEORGE ALLEN & UNWIN LTD