D. H. LAWRENCE,

poet of the spirit and the flesh of woman, has here written his great portrait of a man. A man—

- ravaged by emotions at once exalted and profane,
- twisted in moments both beautiful and agonizing, fulfilled and frustrated,
- torn on the rack of the temptation of the flesh and the guilt of the mind...

It is the classic story of a man dipping deep into the darkest recesses of that ever unique, ever elusive experience called love.
