"A brilliantly accurate novel about Hollywood written from the inside with sympathy, fury and humour"

CHRISTOPHER ISHERWOOD

Matt Gibbons was the best independent film producer in Hollywood. Now he was ready to stake everything, money, position, wife — and mistress — on one film.

Would it be the epic box-office sensation he wanted — or the flop he feared.

No-one has ever been in a better position to write of the film world than Richard Brooks — producer, director, script-writer and creator of such screen classics as "Lord Jim" and "In Cold Blood".
