

THEY FOUND THEIR VOICE

THEY FOUND THEIR VOICE

STORIES FROM SOVIET NATIONALITIES
WITH NO WRITTEN
LANGUAGE BEFORE
THE 1917
OCTOBER REVOLUTION

PROGRESS PUBLISHERS
MOSCOW

Rs 4-25 -

CONTENTS

	Page
V. Shkayev. A Constellation of Friendship and Brotherhood. Translated by Natalie Ward	5
Y. Rytkeu. Sails. Translated by Olga Shartse	13
A. Keshokov. The View from White Mountain. Translated by Arthur Shkarovsky-Raffé	24
J. Kimonko. The Red Banner. Translated by Jun Butler	34
T. Kerashev. A Tale of the Three Most Important Things for an Adyghei. Translated by Margaret Wettlin	41
C. Tzydendambayev. The Clear Drop of Dew. Translated by David Sinclair-Loutit	54
Y. Shestalov. Wonderland of the North. Translated by Asya Shoyett	64
A. Abu-Bakar. A Father's Legacy. Translated by David Sinclair-Loutit	79
S. Kurilov. We'll Meet in the Tundra. Translated by David Sinclair-Loutit	88
A. Bikchentayev. Asiya. Translated by David Sinclair-Loutit	105
R. Akhmatova. Son of the Mountain Folk. Translated by Hilda Perham	128
V. Sangi. The Blue Hills. Translated by Dolores Bratova	141
A. Talvir. The First Working Day. Translated by Jun Butler	153
K. Bairamukova. Airan. Translated by Margaret Wettlin	166
G. Krasilnikov. Waiting. Translated by Jun Butler	177
S. Toka. Hunting for Wolves. Translated by Dolores Bratova	191

