THE ILIAD OF HOMER

For ten long years the Greeks had been at war with Troy. They had come to win back Helen, wife of the Greek King Menelaus, stolen from him by Paris, son of the King of Troy. Homer's great poem The Iliad, describes the tenth year of the war; how the great warrior Achilles quarrelled with Agamemnon, and how he fought with Hector, boldest fighter among the Trojans. It is a stirring and exciting tale of pride, love and vengeance, retold here with dignity and distinction.

THE ODYSSEY OF HOMER

When the war with Troy was over, the Greeks set sail for their homes and among them was Odysseus, the King of Ithaca. It is the story of his eventful voyage that Homer tells in The Odyssey which is retold by Miss Picard with simplicity and fidelity, preserving all the vigour and wonder of the original.
