"...Let the simplest hope of a working man not be left without our support, not a single, even little problem—without our attention...." These words of V. I. Lenin, great leader of the revolution, can be used as an epigraph to the present collection.

In a vivid and captivating form Boris Lavrenev, Alexander Serafimovich, Fedor Gladkov, Mikhail Sholokhov, Alexander Fadeyev and other participants and eye-witnesses of the great events tell us about V. I. Lenin, about the Great October Socialist Revolution in Russia. Though the Civil War still goes on on pages of the book and the young Soviet Republic fights defending its right to live in freedom, the young heroes of Arkady Gaidar start dreaming of the new, bright future which will come due to the Great October.
