'Swamii I need you! I need you!'
When the authoress walls desperately,
Swamii writes in Tamli, 'Vasantha My Life don't cry'

On 29 October 2000 in my morning meditation, Swami (Sai Baba), said, "You are going to destroy all the evil in the world. You will bring about a spiritual awakening in everyone. Write a commentary on the Bhagavad Gita incorporating the 108 names that I have given you. The book should consist of 18 chapters and be called, Sai Geetha Pravachanam."

I asked Him "Swami, why do you want me to write this?" He replied, "Many people have interpreted the Gita. Those are in the form of commentaries or explanations of the slokas. Your account will use the experiences you have gained in life, to explain the lessons contained in the Gita. This will make it easy to absorb and prompt people to follow your example in their lives too."

Sai Geetha Pravachanam is an inspiration for all those struggling in the ocean of worldly existence. The simple style of presenting profound spiritual truths makes it easy for any aspirant to gain benefit. This spiritual text has emerged through experience and in the light of strong faith and devotion. It stands as a testimony of the author's expansive love for Bhagavan. Vasantha Sai, now resides at her Ashram, Mukthi Nilayam located at Royapalayam Village near Tirumangalam, Tamil Nadu, India.

'Oh! Mother Gita enter the minds of those who read this...
Show them the righteous path....to union with God'
